BRIEF NARRATIVE AND SUMMARY

Describe the GSEF project for which you were awarded a grant.

PROFESSIONAL AND CREATIVE CONTRIBUTIONS

Describe how the grant contributed to your own professional and creative development, to the discipline/field in general, to the Pratt community (department/school/institute), and the community at large.

CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

Describe some of the challenges you faced when fulfilling the GSEF funded project, along with opportunities this project has presented as you continue your work—i.e. Will you continue to work and expand on the project? Did you receive other grants and awards related to the project and other developments?

OVERALL REFLECTION

Share relevant personal reflections, stories and anecdotes related to your project. Also share unexpected outcomes and how the experience of preparing the application, launching and completing the project affected your academic and personal learning experiences.

OPTIONAL EXPANDED NARRATIVE

If you wish to have your work included on the GSEF website, this is a chance to creatively showcase your project narrative. You could use this opportunity to further develop points made in your final report or expand upon project elements that you think will create a compelling story. Consider including images, anecdotes, stories, and descriptions of various dimensions of the project. Some of the most striking narratives submitted have included infographics, short films (~5 minutes), digitized portfolios, project-specific landing pages, image carousels, and stories with embedded photography. Use your imagination!

The Office of the Provost will feature a limited number of these narratives on the GSEF website. In addition, we encourage you to share this narrative with your home department, but also with other Pratt departments, schools and divisions, as well as other relevant organizations, institutions, and entities.

Note that you can also share your research and project in other formats if you wish: present a lecture, organize a town hall discussion, do a workshop, etc.

Submit in PDF format where applicable. For any questions, please contact gsef@pratt.edu.

Congratulations on completing your project!
