Orientation Newsletter

Vol 1

Welcome!

On behalf of the Student Involvement and Orientation office, we are excited to welcome you as the newest members of the Pratt community. We are working hard to organize programs and events that will share the resources and give you the chance to get to know other Pratt students and New York City.

It is important that you check your Pratt email on a regular basis because you'll be getting lots of important information from the Institute. Be on the lookout for important emails coming in the next couple of weeks.

We encourage you to bookmark the Orientation website at www.pratt.edu/orientation

There are sessions to attend that whole week, and you are welcome to attend. An overview of the schedule will be released later this summer.

First Day of Classes

The first day of classes is Monday, August 28th.

Things to do before school starts

New Student Module

The New Student Module is a comprehensive webpage created for all incoming students as a resource to familiarize you with Pratt's academic tools and resources. Once you sign in with your Onekey, this New Students website will help you prepare for orientation with an elaborate checklist to complete before the start of the school year. The module will be updated throughout the summer. Find it at newstudents.pratt.edu

Summer Reading

All new first year students are required to complete a summer reading. Please get started so you are ready for New Student Orientation and your Common Experience Module.

Colson Whitehead's Colossus of New York: A City in Thirteen Parts

Colossus is available through many local libraries, local bookstores, audiobook streaming services, and internet booksellers. If you're unable to find a copy during the summer, you'll find copies on reserve in the Pratt Library on the Brooklyn Campus once you arrive -- you won't be able to take a reserved copy out of the library, but you'll find comfortable chairs there for your reading in place. You'll be working with this text during your Common Experience module, so do read it beforehand.

An email about signing up for a specific Common Experience module will be sent to you in the coming weeks. These modules take place during orientation and are scheduled by the individual student. Stay tuned for that, but start reading the book now!
